Employee Recognition

A defense contractor received a prestigious award for increasing its production capacity while maintaining quality. The contractor in turn wanted to recognize their employees for their part in this momentous achievement. The company decided to give each of them the Amesbury™ Photo Dome metal pen. Each pen would show the award logo on the pen's top and were engraved with "Companies don't succeed, people do," and personalized with the employee's name. The pens were a hit and increased employee engagement even more.
